

HOSTILE DETENTION SURVIVAL COURSE OPEN ENROLLMENT

7-9 MAR 2012

Does your work take you overseas to a high risk, high threat environment? If yes, then continue reading.

Here's the scenario... You are overseas doing your job when 2 foreign government police officers approach you and begin to question you, how do you respond? Seconds later for whatever reason, they are telling you to turn around and now they are putting restraints on you. You are tossed into the back of a car and driven to a detention center. At the detention center you are locked up in a room and the questioning begins.

Could this happen? It already has and it will again.

Because of on going request from numerous organizations ISOCAP Group along with Mountain Shepherd has agreed to run an Open Enrollment Hostile Detention Survival Course. This 3 day course includes lodging and meals.

With the recent events of our military returning home from areas infested with terrorists, criminals and unfriendly governments, there is an ever increasing need for civilian contract employees to work overseas in the same dangerous areas that our military just left. The difference is a lot of civilian contractors are not riding around in tanks or carrying state of the art weaponry.

This course will teach you the most important thing you need to know before going into a high risk environment.....how to survive captivity. You'll get a better understanding of the captivity environments that you could find yourself in and how to manage them.

You'll learn techniques on what to say and how to say it while preserving your dignity and life. You'll also learn how to plan an escape as appropriate, how to defeat restraints and much more. This course is 3 days of pertinent, valuable life saving information. Unlike many "cookie cutter" briefings this course revolves around maximum participation with maximum "hands on" training.

Upon completion of this course you'll have the confidence to know that if you're working in a high risk environment and you're detained or abducted you'll have the necessary skills and training to overcome the hardship of confinement and return home with honor.

- Lodging and Meals provided
- This course is limited to 15 personnel
- Background checks required
